To Whom It May Concern:

Dr. Zelia Chueke has been my pupil and my graduate assistant for three years here at the University of Miami. She came to me as a fully developed pianist and musician with a deep appreciation for the traditions of music and a vibrant curiosity about the music of today. She is excited about music and needs to express herself by communicating with people. People who already appreciate our tradition and those who have no understanding of our musical heritage. She is the kind of person who is committed to the future of an art form, music, that is threatened today. I cannot say more than that we must entrust the future of our art form to someone like Zelia Chueke!
